CLASSY CABARET AT HOUSE-WARMING OF HOTEL DE GINK

Enthusiastic Crowd, Including City Officials and 'Boes' Tin Cans in Evidence.

AND SOME MULLIGAN!

Place Is Spick and Span, Soups Are Ousted and Rules Are Obeyed.

The Hotel de Gink was formally thrown open last night to the hobo public with a mulligan, a musicale and a flop. Hoboes are in the habit of having things thrown at them and catching them on the bounce, the fly or the beam. But the Hotel de Gink was the biggest thing yet thrown their way, and they were there with both hands and both feet.

A wonderful bit of work had been done with the hotel in the ten days it has been in the possession of the men of the road, the track, the desert and the jungle. A week ago Monday the city building at the corner of Centre and Worth Streets was turned over to Jeff Davis and his fellow hoboes to be cleaned up. No hobo in his happiest and most contented moment had ever flopped in a more forbidding looking hole on the highway.
Pipes and fittings were bent and twisted, furnishings were "busted" as bad as any hobo ever was and the five floors would have made pigsties look like Pullmans.

AND A FEAST FOR THE KINGS, THE MULLIGAN.

Last night who could have eaten off the floor. The hoboes did it.
That's where they had the mulligan is?
Do you know what a mulligan is?
Do you know what a pate de foie gras is? Well, that isn't it. Do you know what a filet mignon is? No, it isn't anything like that. Do you know what a whole-souled Irish stew is like? Well, that's getting near it.
Only, it's that and then some. It's the chef d'oeuvre of the chef. It's the mint in the julep, the nectar of the gods to the hobo.

Incidentally to "flop" is to retire for the night in peaceful or any other slumber.

Last night one hundred hoboes flopped under blankets in the Hotel de Gink. They didn't have to blow out the candle or the gas. They didn't have to crawl in under the light of the moon or stars. They skidded under cover in the full glare of electric lights and "Louis the Lamp" saw that the juice was turned off.

But it was a grand opening. It was a fashionable crush. Men in evening dresses mingled with the drab of the road. Those who came late had to send in their cards, or give their names at the desk. Then they paged the hotel-lobby, the barbershop, the drugstore and the cookshop for Jeff Davis, king of the hoboes. The kink was in his glory and his sweater.

At the conclusion of the mulligan the pots and pans, tin plates and tomato can finger-bowls were cleared away, and the floor was ready for the musicale. The hotel has only one floor so far, but the remaining four will be ready for more bunches of "boes" by Monday night.

SOUSES BARRED BY THE KING AND THE JUNGLE COPS.

"An' say, bo, mebbe t'ing isn't comin' our way. De city c'ub us a lot of blankets, so did Lord & Taylor and a whole lot other guys. An' we've got in 'er get hats wot we work fur—aw der's nuffin' to it. We've it."

There was an entertainment at the housewarming. The hoboes held a jungle court. Jungle Judge Bearcat Kinney was necessarily absent, having accumulated a souss early in the week and being thereafter led down the fire escape. No sousses go in the Hotel de Gink, except out the window, down the fire escape or down the stairs. Jeff Davis was the judge, and the jungle cops pinched a number of the guests. Judge Davis found them all guilty of doing nothing and sentenced them to ten minutes of speech.
City Chamberlain Bruer was the first to be pinched.

"Gentlemen," said the City Chamberlain, just as if he were at the opening of the Biltmore or a bottle of wine. "I've been pinched. I have done all of doing nothing and sentenced them to ten minutes of speech.
to be pinched.

The hoboes registered as the came in. They have to register in accordance with the law. "Champ the Beer" put down his occupation as painter, plasterer and porter. "Boston Red" is interpreter, nurse and barber.

"Fried-eggs Fred" is a short-order cook and stove moulder. "Mainmast Mike" is a deckhand, fireman, waiter, cook and musician. Among other guests were "Chicken Charley," "Boston Bean," "Turnpike Tim," "St. Louis Slim," "Gin Fizz George," "Polite Pete," "Bull-in-Bill," "Ice Cream Charley," "Wary Williams," "Dipaty Rhodes," "Roller Skates," "Hiker Ham," "Pinchle Pete," "Beet Atew Sam," "Freckles," "Bull-in-Bill," "Ice Cream Charley," and "Frisco Finnegans."

EXQUISITE MUSIC BY 'BOES ON THE CHEESE-BOX.

Somewhere sent the hoboes a cheese-box, which in the language not of the road is a piano. There was an orchestra of four pieces. The musicians wouldn't say who they were.
One was an artist, one was a painter, another a hatter and one wore long hair. They played exquisite music—Beethoven, Chopin, Schubert and "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." They put their instruments away when "Mainmast Mike" asked them to play the "Starboard Martyr."

Hammerstein sent down a lot of artists, and there was singing and a monologue by Battling Nelson.
"Der's some actors coming," volunteered Jeff Davis, at the close of the session of the jungle court. Jeff dropped into the vernacular of the hobo now and then. "Actors is hoboes.
Dey gets out o' jobs sometimes and den it's dem for de des. Oh, dey can tell you dey's wit us. Dey's some of dem we'll be glad to meet here to take de work away from de dem guard. I mean de fellows in de city whose out o' work. No wif.

We're with 'em. We just showed you how to take care of ourselves. We don't want your jobs. We don't want to flop under your trees. We ain't hoboes yet. But if you don't get a move on and help yourselves like we helped ourselves youse will be hoboes sure enough. De city didn't help us.
We helped ourselves. When we got dis place all cleaned up dey told us dat dat was all. Dey just wanted de place cleaned up, and we done it grand, dey said.

NOT TRAMPS, HE SAYS, NOR CRIMINALS; JUST 'BOES.

"We just moved in. We squirmed in or else we would a got in. We kept on smilin' and saying all right and de first ting dey knew we was in. I must 'ank dey heads of de city departments. Dey met us half way and now dey say: 'Be good, take care. Now dat you're in see dat you stay in.' Dere's 2,000,000 hoboes in de United States. We ain't tramps.
Dere's 750,000 tramps and we get de credit for de badness dey do. Why, dey just as soon knock us on de head as any one else. Dey call us gay cats and we call dem yeggs. Well, now enjoy yourselves, hoboes. We don't care if we don't hit de hay until 2 o'clock in de morning."

"The House on the Hill" was sung by the Harmonius Quartet, comprising Billy Lee, Bob Hardy, Billy Barr and Vincent Skalla.

"Fire Alarm Finnegans" of Frisco obliged with the "Tan Yard Side." Finnegans has a fine tenor robusto with a donkey-engine ratchet edge to it, and it made a great hit in "Dismond Dan's" Hotel de Bum three blocks away, where the plain par-handers flock o' nights all year round.

"Say, bo," murmured "Wary Wil-iams," "Chicken Charley" from under his blankets, "dat was some night —some opening, what?"

"Better dan opening a bank or a chicken coop," returned Charley.

Two great American flags flopped quietly outside against the two fronts of the building. Other flags flaunted in the breeze. Inside were flags of America and Belgium and France on the walls. At 1 o'clock only the house detectives were astir—the jungle bulls.
At the Hotel de Gink it was quiet as a sawmill.
